Applicant's election without traverse of Group III in the reply filed on 7/17/2007 is acknowledged.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 9-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The recitation in the preamble of claim 9 that the apparatus is a substrate processing unit is confusing since it is unclear how the apparatus is being processed. It is unclear how the recitation in claim 10 that the substrate processing unit is a pre-plating treatment unit such as catalyst-imparting treatment unit as set forth in claim 11 or a cleaning unit as set forth in claim 12 further limits the apparatus claim especially since these claims fail to teach forth a means for applying a catalyst-imparting treatment or a cleaning treatment.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Stevens 6,451,114.

Stevens teaches as shown in the design of a substrate processing unit which is comprised of the following elements: a substrate receiving ring to which a seal ring is integrally mounted or formed therewith (grooved portion of element 22 which contacts and supports a peripheral edge of the substrate); a vertically movable substrate holder which includes having a substrate fixing ring or disk 35 for holding a substrate by nipping a peripheral portion of the substrate between the substrate fixing ring and the seal ring; and a temporary retaining section integrally mounted or formed with the substrate receiving ring and positioned around the seal ring, for temporarily retaining the substrate while forming a space between the substrate and the seal ring. Stevens teaches every structural element of the apparatus as set forth claim 9. With respect to claim 10-12, Stevens is capable of applying a variety of compositions to the substrate including those within the scope of the claim since it teaches every claimed element of the apparatus. Note it has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from a prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ 2d 1647 (1987). "[A]pparatus claims cover what a device is, not what a device does." Hewlett-Packard Co. v. Bausch & Lomb Inc., 909 F.2d 1464, 1469, 15 USPQ2d 1525, 1528 (Fed. Cir. 1990). With respect to claim 13, the Stevens substrate receiving ring and substrate fixing ring are capable of holding the substrate set forth in the claims since it teaches every claimed element of the apparatus. Note it has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from a prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ 2d 1647 (1987). "[A]pparatus claims cover what a device is, not what a device does." Hewlett-Packard Co. v. Bausch & Lomb Inc., 909 F.2d 1464, 1469, 15 USPQ2d 1525, 1528 (Fed. Cir. 1990).

Claims 14-21 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
